The EverGuard Chase Cover

What is going on in there?

Why Worry?

Because old fashioned, galvanized chase covers are rotting and leaking all across the country!

(The typical life of a GALVANIZED chase cover is 7 - 9 years.)

Do you have one on your home? It could mean that there is water leaking into your home, which leads to major problems.

Mold growth

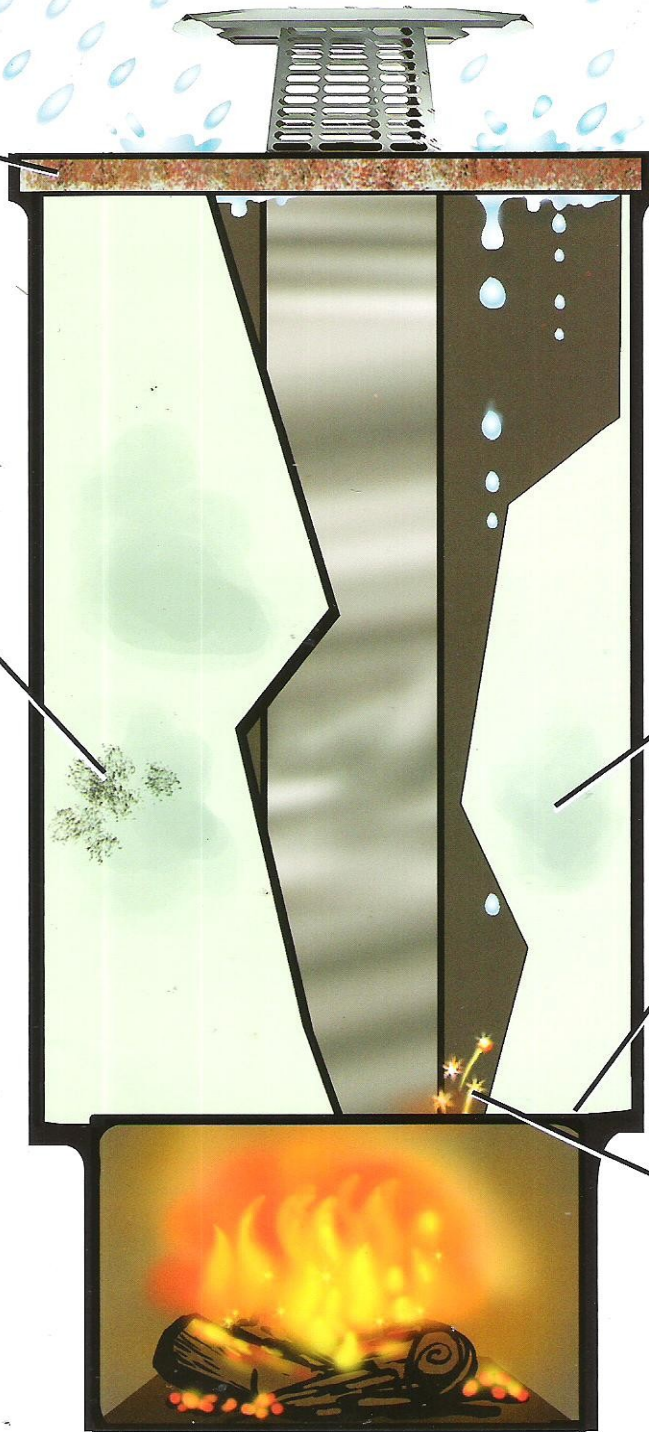

What is a Chase Cover?

A chase cover is a metal shield that covers the top of your chimney, or chase, to prevent rain, melting snow, and everything else from entering into the chase.

Sheet rock soaking in moisture causes peeling, dampness and strong odor.

Firebox rotting

Firebox rotting leads to sparks, heat and Carbon Monoxide leaking out of the firebox.

This is one problem that you do not ever have to worry about again. With 100% Stainless Steel Construction, and the Forever Warranty, you can fix it and forget it - today! Solve it forever with an EverGuard chase cover!
